QUEENSFIELD COURT
Residents' Association

Your collective voice for Queensfield Court

We're building QCRA together.

QCRA is being established to give the residents of Queensfield Court an independent and organised way to work together on matters affecting our homes and our community.

What should QCRA be?

That's something we want residents to help decide.

We want QCRA to become a lasting, open and democratic association shaped by the people who live here, giving residents a way to:

- share information and ideas
- raise concerns about issues affecting the development
- work together on common problems
- communicate collectively with the landlord and managing agent
- have a say in the future of Queensfield Court

Why join?

Many issues are easier to address when residents work together rather than individually.

QCRA can provide a recognised organisation through which residents can share information, establish what matters to them, agree priorities and, where appropriate, represent those views collectively.

You don't have to attend every meeting.

You can simply become a member and receive information. Or you can get more involved when you have the time or when an issue matters to you.

Help shape QCRA

We want to hear what you think a residents' association should do for Queensfield Court.

Join QCRA. Have your say. Help shape its future.

Why formal recognition?

QCRA intends to become a Recognised Tenants' Association (RTA) under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985.

Formal recognition gives a qualifying Residents' Association important rights, including rights relating to information, service charges and consultation on certain matters affecting the development.

But recognition is not the reason for creating QCRA. We want to establish a lasting residents' association that can represent residents collectively and continue to develop according to the needs and wishes of its members.

Who can join?

QCRA welcomes the people who live at Queensfield Court.

If you are a leaseholder or owner-occupier, you can join as a qualifying member, subject to the Association's Constitution.

If you rent your home, you can also join as an associate member, subject to the Constitution.

Membership gives you an opportunity to receive information, attend meetings, contribute your views and help shape the Association.

You don't have to attend every meeting or become involved in every issue. You can participate as much or as little as you choose.
